The following remedies are offered to the public as the best, most perfect, which medical skill can attain. Ayer's Cathartic Pills have been prepared with the utmost skill which the medical profession of this age possesses, and their effects prove they have virtues which surpass any combination of medicines hitherto known. Other preparations do more or less good; but this cures dangerous complaints, so quick and so surely, as to prove an efficacy and a power to uproot disease beyond any thing which mankind have known before. By removing the obstructions of the internal organs and stimulating them into healthy action, they remove the foundations of life and vigor, health courses anew through the body, and the sick man is well again. They are adapted to disease, and disease only, for when taken by one in health they produce but little effect. This is the perfection of medicine. It is antagonistic to disease, and no more. Tender children may take them with impunity. If they are sick they will cure them, if they are well they will do them no harm.

Give them to some patient who has been poisoned with bilious complaint; see his bloom returning, form straighten with strength again; see his long-lost appetite return; see his clammy features lose their health. Give them to some sufferer whose foul blood has burst out in scrofulous ulcers; skin is covered with sores; who stands, or sits, or lies in anguish. He has been drenched inside and out with every potion which ingenuity could suggest. Give him these Pills, and mark the effect; see the scabs fall from his body; see the new, fair skin that has grown under them; see the latter part that is clean. Give them to him whose sallow humors have planted rheumatism in his joints and bones; move him, and he screeches with pain; he too has been soaked through every muscle of his body with liniments and salves. Give him these Pills to purify his blood; they may not cure him, for, alas! there are cases which no mortal power can reach; but mark, he walks with crutches now, and now he walks alone; they have cured him. Give them to the lean, sour, haggard dyspeptic, whose gnawing stomach has long ago eaten every smile from his face and every muscle from his body. See his appetite return, and with it his health; see the new man. See her that was radiant with health and loveliness blasted and too early withering away; want of exercise or mental anguish, or some lurking disease, has deranged the internal organs of digestion, assimilation or secretion, till they are in fault. Give her these Pills to stimulate the vital principle into renewed vigor, to cast out the obstructions, and infuse a new vitality into the blood. Now look again—the roses blossom on her cheek, and where lately sorrow sat joy bursts from every feature. See the sweet infant wasted with worms, its wan, sickly features tell you without a sound, and painfully distinct, that they are eating its life away. Its pinched-up nose and ears, and restless gaspings, tell the dreadful truth in language which every mother knows. Give it the Pills in large doses to sweep these vile parasites from the body. Now look again and see the ruddy blooming childhood. Is it nothing to do these things? Say, are they not the marvel of this age? And yet they are done around you every day.

Have you the less serious symptoms of these disorders, they are the easier cured. Jaundice, Costiveness, Headache, Sickness, Heartburn, Foul Stomach, Nausea, Pain in the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, King's Evil, Neuralgia, Gout, and kindred complaints all arise from the derangements which these Pills rapidly cure. Take them perseveringly, and under the counsel of a good Physician if you can; if not, take them judiciously by such advice as we give you, and the distressing, dangerous diseases they cure, which afflict so many millions of the human race, are cast out like the devils of old—they must burrow in the brutes and in the sea. Price 25 cents per box—5 boxes for $1.

Through a trial of many years and through every nation of civilized men, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been found to afford more relief and to cure more cases of pulmonary disease than any other record known to mankind. Cases of apparently settled consumption have been cured by it, and thousands of sufferers who were deemed beyond the reach of human aid have been restored to their friends and usefulness, to sound health and the enjoyment of life, by this all-powerful antidote to diseases of the lungs and throat. Here a cold has settled on the lungs. The dry, hacking cough, the glassy eye, and the pale, thin features of life's waning lamp betray and strong whisper to all but hopeless consumption. The fever covery things; but the disease is gnawing at his vitals, and shows its fatal symptoms more and more daily all his frame. He is taking the Cherry Pectoral now; it has stopped his cough and made his breathing easy; his sleep is sound at night; his appetite returns, and with it his strength. The dart which pierced his side is broken. Scarcely any neighborhood can be found which has not some living trophy like this to shadow forth the virtues which have won for the Cherry Pectoral an imperishable renown. Its usefulness does not end here. Nay, it becomes priceless more by prevention than cure. The countless colds and coughs which it cures are the seed which would have ripened into a dreadful harvest of incurable diseases. Influenza, Croup, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Pleurisy, Whooping Cough, and all affections of the throat and lungs are easily cured by the Cherry Pectoral if taken in season. Every family should have it by them, and they will find it an invaluable protection from the insidious prowler which carries off the parent sheep from many a flock, the darling lamb from many a home.

Authenticated evidence of these facts, with directions for the treatment of each complaint, may be found in Ayer's American Almanac, of which we publish thirty-five editions and scatter them broadcast over the earth, in order that the sick everywhere may have before them the information it contains. Druggists and dealers in medicine generally have them for distribution gratis, and also for sale their remedies, prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer, Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass.

Laying the Corner Stone of the Seminary Chapel.

The ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new Chapel of the Theological Seminary in this city took place yesterday, (10th inst.,) in the presence of a large audience, including the most prominent of our citizens, and many persons from abroad.

The occasion was one of great interest to the city, as well as to the friends of the Seminary throughout the State. By the disinterested and persevering exertions of the ladies of the Corban Society, a fund has been collected within a few years sufficient to warrant the building of a noble Chapel for the Seminary, which will furnish the Lecture Rooms and a Hall of Worship, and especially a safe depository for the large and valuable Library of the Institution, numbering 11,000 volumes, and rapidly increasing, and being second in this State only to the splendid Library at Bowdoin College. With the laying of the corner stone of this Chapel, as was well said, the Seminary takes an important onward step—it becomes a visible institution.

After a few introductory remarks by Dr. Pond, in which he said the Chapel, which has so long been needed for the safe keeping of the library, and for the convenience of the institution, is designed to be an ornament and a pride to the city—the services commenced with singing by a choir of the Students.

An earnest and powerful address was then delivered by Rev. George E. Adams, D. D., occupying about thirty-five minutes, in which, after speaking of the value and necessity of a Christian Ministry, and of the education and discipline which Christian Ministers must have and can only obtain by means of Theological Seminaries, he proceeded to speak of the history of the Bangor Institution, and of its value to the City and State—of the early struggles of its founders—of its own varying fortunes—of its present hopes and prospects—and of the invaluable services rendered to its funds, and to its very existence, by the noble-hearted women who had devoted themselves to its advancement.

The master-builder, Mr. Joseph W. Humphrey, with his assistants, was then called up to lay the corner-stone—which was done. After Mr. H. F. Durgin, in behalf of the Secretary, had deposited in a cavity beneath, a tin box, 7 inches square and 5 deep, hermetically sealed, containing the following documents:

A general catalogue of the Seminary, and the catalogue for the present year.

Printed Sermons of the Professors, Drs. Pond, Shepard, Smith and Harris, and Photographs of the same Professors; also, printed Sermons of some of the Trustees, including Rev. Kish Bayley's and Rev. Harvey Loomis', who were Trustees from 1816 until their decease.

Photographs of the President and Vice-President, and other members of the Board of Trustees, including Father Sawyer and Deacon Adams.

Sermons and Reports of the Maine Missionary Society, and Minutes of the General Conference of Maine.

Articles of Faith and Covenant of the Congregational Churches, Bangor.

City Charter; Reports; Mayor's Address, 1858; Rules, &c.

Documents from the Mercantile, Mechanics' and other Associations of the City.

City Directory. Newspapers of the day.

Statement of the organization of the Corban Society, in 1831; the names of the members, to the present time; synopsis of their doings, and the results of their efforts. Since 1843, their funds have been appropriated to the Seminary, furnishing books for the Library, and otherwise. From 1843, their funds have been directed exclusively to the erection of the Chapel. [illegible]

A list of the donors to the Chapel, and the amount subscribed, amounting to over $4000, one of which has been paid.

Dr. Adams then solemnly invoked the blessing of Heaven upon the work then [illegible] and earnestly commended, and consecrated to the service of God.

After which a fervent prayer was made by Rev. Benjamin Tapper, D. D., and the services closed with the singing of the following verses, [illegible] original Ode and Benediction:

[The Ode was written for the occasion by a member of the Corban Society, and one of the most efficient helpers in the work of securing funds for the Chapel.]

"Corban" Ode.

Now let the people sing—and say—
"A thousand blessings on this day,
And on the other still living,
Disposed with reverence due,
And praise, and prayer devout and true,
That God the work would own."

And let the people sing—and say—
"The fathers should be here to-day
And friends, departed quite,
God's will be done—and sure we hear
Their sympathetic words of cheer
From out the mansions bright."

And let the people sing—and say—
"Right earnest souls have, in our day,
Received the heavenly word;
All times are in the Master's hand,
And blest are vales at His command
Go forward—trust the Lord."

And let the people sing—and say—
"Their treasure grew from day to day,
Bestowed by great and small;
The largest gift, the merest mite
Alike most precious in their sight,
Since love was shown in all."

And let the people sing—and pray—
"God grant we all may see the day
When, meeting here again,
This goodly structure, well begun
Shall stand before us, fully done
From sill to tower—Amen."

The Benediction was pronounced by Dr. Stephen Thurston, of Searsport, after some eloquent and appropriate remarks.

Bangor, June 11, 1858.

Report of the Address of Rev. Geo. E. Adams, D. D.

At the Laying of the Corner Stone of the Chapel of the Bangor Theological Seminary, June 10th 1858.

Dr. ADAMS remarked in his introduction—"This is not the hour for a formal argument in defence of the christian ministry—an institution established by the authority of Christ, and always demanded by the instincts of the church."

Glancing as he went on, at some objections, he said, "Let him who would carry out to its fullest extent this idea—'Every man his own minister'—burn all his books, shut up his ears forever against all communications of thought from his brethren, and his lips from all utterance of his own thought to them, thrust out of his mind every conception which he has borrowed from others, denounce all professions and trades, all schools and teachings, and the whole system of social inter-dependance; let him be his own mechanic in every branch, his own teacher and pupil, his own master and servant, his own everything."

Alluding briefly to Theological Seminaries he said "It is not probable that the existing system will be materially changed for a long time, if ever. The necessity was never so great as it is to-day that our ministers should be thoroughly trained men, should have an ample capital to start with. It is not the hour for abandoning seminaries preparatory to the ministry, when not only law and medicine, the army and navy, but almost every trade and art demands its own particular school. As to the idea, 'we have too many theological institutions,' New England Congregationalism has four. Doubtless glorious old Andover might do for all. But it were not best to risk the great interests at stake on a single establishment. The two in Connecticut should be, and, it is hoped will be, united. Let the eastern half of New England have its one.—'Room might be found in other seminaries for all the young men gathered here?' Doubtless, and as their presence would add very little if anything to the expenses of those seminaries it may be suggested that such an arrangement would save to the cause all this school costs. Is this a just and complete view of the matter? Does this Seminary do nothing but train a certain number of young men? Are the pious labors of the students while prosecuting their education nothing to this important city, nothing to neighboring communities and the region generally? Are the examinations in sacred science and the anniversaries held here to which ministers from far and near resort and by which they are refreshed and quickened, put upon new tracks of thought and study, are these not to be taken into the account? Are the presence and influence in our State of these learned, godly, strong men, the teachers of this school of the prophets, who independently of the Seminary could scarcely be retained among us, occasional preachers in our churches, and counsellors in our public conventions—are their presence and influence worth nothing?

"But, omitting any extended remarks on the utility and necessity of the ministry, of theological seminaries in general, and of this one in particular," Dr. Adams proceeded "Never did an institution originate in purer motives than this. It was born of no sectarian spirit, of no feeling of rivalry, of no desire for the aggrandisement of any place or any man.—They who first moved in it were men of faith and love; men of foresight, too, who knew that theirs were the days of few doctors; men who worked while they might, knowing that their time of painful toil would soon be past. I dimly remember something of the scheming and deliberations which I overheard in my early boyhood. I understood but little; they scarcely knew what they would be at; they only knew that these regions through which their sons and weary feet had so often borne them, were swarming by a sparse population, living without the means of grace or ordinary education; that soon these hundreds would become thousands, and that they must have ministers to preach to them the everlasting gospel. I remember how two of these men with their knapsacks upon their shoulders, filled with self-pert and bread, came on exploring tramps into the wilderness of the Penobscot, to select some township of land, perhaps the Mississippi Legislature might give them, but for nothing their fortune, but as a site for an institution where young men might be educated for the ministry. [illegible] as they would have done [illegible] place.

"Not as numerous as the trees, [illegible] One of them entered into his rest nearly three years since at the age of 82, active to the last day of his continuance here in the service of the Seminary, and almost as straight and nimble of foot as when he made that journey with Father Sawyer 40 years before. The other still lives, battling with age and disease, and death, and not very likely to be conquered before completing his 100d year. Having obtained a liberal charter under the title of the "Maine Charity School," chiefly through the agency of Rev. Kish Bailey of Newcastle, recently deceased—then a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, and I believe for that very purpose, the Seminary commenced a fundamental existence, without buildings, without books, without apparatus of any kind at Hampden about the year 1816-17. Shortly after the institution was, so to speak, put up at public auction for its permanent location. The Bangor subscription exceeding that of any other place, it was removed to this city. The Professors had resigned, the students were but a handful; a half dozen unpainted pine shelves in a chamber of the Treasurer's house sufficed for the few books which had been collected; it was emphatically a day of small things. Yet, very much through the tact, the decision, the bright, cheerful, fitting words, dropped here and there by our good pastor, Rev. Harvey Loomis, the Institution was welcomed to the little village, as then it was. The students were received as boarders at very moderate charges, sometimes without charge, into the best families of the place. Instructors were soon procured; and here it should be said that the contributions of the citizens of Bangor have been from the first a main part of the support of the Institution, and that but for these contributions, it would probably long since have ceased to be,—notwithstanding the truly generous aid received from other parts of the State, from good old Massachusetts and from other states. We almost forget now, how often we have been in straits,—on the very verge of extinction.

In 1831, the only remaining instructor the venerable Dr. John Smith, having died, the students were mostly dispersed. The next year Professors Pond and Bond were inaugurated and the Seminary was revived.

At its starting, the Institution embraced both a literary and a theological course; and was therefore regarded as a novelty, and an experiment. It was not, however, so much of a novelty as it seemed; for its course of study differed not materially from that of the original New England colleges, which were established mainly in reference to education for the ministry. Soon after the revival of the Institution in 1832, it assumed its present form, that of an ordinary Theological Seminary.

Many excellent and able men went forth from the school during the time of its earlier organization, whose praise is still in all the churches, and some of whom, as to all essentials of usefulness, are not a whit behind the very choicest of those who have enjoyed the greater advantages of the more recent arrangement. This is praise enough for the former, considering the high position and eminent efficiency for good of the latter.

To-day our Seminary, in the good Providence of God, takes an important onward step. It is about to make itself visible, more distinctively than, heretofore, as a school of Sacred Learning. It has had before its lodging-rooms, its boarding-house. So has a ship-yard. So has a cotton-factory. It is about to have its Library, its Chapel; its place for Books, through which its students may hold communion with the greatest and best men of all ages: its place for Devotion, in which, with Jesus, they may together daily commune with the Infinite One, the source of all knowledge, the source of all goodness.

Such an Institution as this is nothing without Books. It wants a great many Books—a great variety of Books—not the works of Calvin, and Baxter, and Edwards only,—but of men who have set forth the same general truths from other points of view; nay, the writings of those who have rejected and argued against the sentiments held by those great and godly men. It wants not theological books only but books of science generally, books of Art, books of History, books of Poetry. It wants books for pupils, and books for teachers, books to be perused and re-perused, to be committed to memory and incorporated with the very substance of the soul; books to be occasionally consulted; books to be dipped into; books to be taken down from the shelves, glanced at, and put back again. No one author views truth from all sides. He who is preparing for the sacred ministry, who is to become the teacher of different minds that must receive the truth in different ways, must not be a man of one book—though that is well in the sense intended by those who would urge this—nor one set of books; but a man of various reading, a man who has conversed with differing minds, that he may know how rightly to divide the word of truth, and give to every man his portion—the portion he can receive in due season. An essential want, then, of our Seminary is many books, and, consequently, a fitting place to put them in. And here let it be remarked in passing, that the collection of books to be gathered here,—though not intended for general circulation—will become of incalculable benefit to the community around. There's a strange power in a book; it exhales wisdom, even while it seems as if nobody had read it. Place 20,000 volumes in this Library; it will be a Drummond Light, which will shine far beyond these grounds. It will be as though the odors of Araby were gathered here in rich profusion, unable to be confined within the Seminary walls, gratifying the senses of every passer by.

But this is not to be a Library only, but also a Chapel; a place for the morning and evening worship. Poor ministers! would your teachers and your books make, unless your pupils were accustomed to hold converse with God. If we gain wisdom by talking with wise men, through their writings, how much more by talking with Him who only hath wisdom, by the devout reading of His word, and by Prayer. We, who have been many years in the active exercise of our ministry, have found that we need Godliness even more than Book-Learning. Here, then, night and morning, let the Scriptures be reverently read, and Psalms sung, and Prayers offered. Never let the exercise degenerate into a formality. Let the praying community around, the fathers and mothers in Israel, all who would not have the churches cursed with an undevout ministry, be present in spirit, and help by their fervent intercessions.

We lay this corner-stone to-day. Not as might have been anticipated, man with his strong arm, but weak as by his fellow-dust covered. The dust could only, when it was yet dark, in the sepulchre, through the night, roll away the stone from the door. It is one of "Woman's Rights" to lay corner-stones. She is now doing it,—in the nursery, in the Sabbath School, in the family, in the [illegible] society, [illegible] lays them firmly and well. She is herself a rich object as this. It is something I cannot comprehend, how good, pure and noble, that man of prayer, man of faith, and men of piety, The Mother, fortunately for mankind, comes before the Professor; and the latter will find it hard work to root out the good old doctrines imbibed in tender infancy from the former. A mother's catechising is better than a whole Library of books, and a mother's evening Hymn and Prayer by the child's bedside, is holier than all your chapel-services.

This at least is certain, that women's zeal and courage has been the determining influence in the continuance, if not the existence of this Institution. The wife of Rev. Kish Bailey, who has been already referred to, collected more than $2000 for the Seminary at its first starting. A certain sewing society in Bangor, a model one, too—under the energetic direction of its chief manager, Mrs. Coombs—and it was the pledge of this effect which decided the removal of the Seminary to this place—contributed a hundred dollars a year for twenty successive years; the money earned by hard labor; fairs, tea-parties, and the various other catch-penny devices of late years, not having been invented then.

For many years the "Corban Society" had devoted its funds to replenishing the Library; till at length it was felt that a suitable place as a depository for the books was more needful than any increase of the number, with existing conveniences or inconveniences for arranging and preserving them. So one woman said to another, "What do you think? Can we not induce the women of Maine to build a Chapel and Library for the Seminary?" The answer was, "We can try." A committee was chosen, and a circular sent abroad, which did not indeed produce much of a sensation, and those who most promptly responded were generally not the most able. Nevertheless the thing went on, and now and then a donation came in, till, after four years, the Society is found with money enough to be able to begin, and courage enough to expect in faith. And so, on this 10th of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, this year of the right hand of the Most High, this year of revivals, we proceed to lay the foundation, praising and giving thanks unto the Lord, because He is good, for His mercy endureth forever. Prosper us, O God, in this work, your hands, and accept the offering which these Thy servants humbly and gratefully bring to Thee and to Thy cause.

The speaker then called upon the master-builder, in behalf of the Corban Society, and those women, whoever they may be, who have labored with them for this object, to lay the corner-stone, and then concluded:

"The stone is laid. The Seminary is founded. The question as to its continuance is settled. It pledges itself to-day, with God's blessing, to live. Long and firmly may this corner-stone abide! May the building go on prosperously to its completion. Within its walls may scores and hundreds, yes, thousands, give attendance to reading and to prayer, that their profiting may appear in all things, that they may be workmen that need not be ashamed, that they may go forth in the name and in the spirit of their Master, wise to win souls, turning many to righteousness, and at last shine as the brightness of the firmament, and as the stars forever and ever."

Remarks of Prof. Pond,

On the same occasion.

My Christian friends:—To me this is a very pleasant and interesting occasion. We have for a long time been trying to get this building for devotional exercises and for the safe keeping of the large library, which contains about 11,000 volumes, and one which, if destroyed, money could not replace. This library has up to this time been exposed in a wooden building which is entirely insufficient and unsafe for the purpose. I deem this occasion as interesting one, not only to those who are concerned with this Seminary, but to all the citizens of Bangor, for it is intended that this building shall be an ornament to the city. It will also contain by far the most valuable library in the State, except the one at Brunswick.

Remarks of Rev. Stephen Thurston of Searsport,

At the close of the services.

It may seem presumptuous my friends, for me to let off a few "small arms" after such heavy ordnance. This Seminary has had very much to struggle with in its past history.—Not only has it contended with a poverty, which has been felt, but also with a tide of disrespect and opposition. But there is much of satisfaction in the belief that this disrespect and opposition has now faded away, and that the young men from this Seminary are in great demand. It has come to pass that the "old Bay State," though, perhaps, not obliged to do it, thinks it best to send away down east to Bangor, for its ministers. They are taking stars of the first magnitude from our State—men that were trained here under the shadow of this Academy, and men of which we need not to be ashamed. The importance of this Seminary, I find, is being felt abroad. I was conversing a few days ago with a man in Boston, and he said to me, (perhaps it will not do to say it here—but if there are any who do not wish to hear it they must try not to,) "You have the best Theological Faculty at Bangor that there is in the world," and I could heartily say Amen!—I believe it; I feel it in my heart; and I was glad that it had got abroad. I felt rejoiced to see that they had got so far along that they were trying to get our young men, one after another to fill their most important posts. A very delightful change has come over public sentiment within low years, in regard to this Seminary.

But there is one thing which cannot be easily got rid of; it is the poverty which has, as it were, surrounded us like an atmosphere, and which we have breathed day after day, until at times we were almost suffocated. Now what shall we do? It seems to me that the claims of the Seminary, its value to the city, its value to the world, are such that it should secure the patronage of men of different denominations. It is not sectional, that it is not a public benefit. I might address a word to the patriot. When an Institution is doing so much for the welfare of our country as this, it appeals to your patriotism, and you can but put your hand deep into your pockets. It is very useful to the city, and does more to give it a reputation abroad than any other thing. How far would Andover have been known, if it had not been for her Theological Seminary? How much better is Bangor known over the world, for this Seminary, and for the liberality for its citizens to put their hands deep into their pockets. The men in our churches, who, after they have got a home and enough to make their families comfortable, and after they have money left, had better put a few thousand dollars of it into this Institution, than to buy a ship. God has committed funds to good men for good purposes; and when they have money to lay out, they should invest it in such a cause as this. It is something I cannot comprehend, how good, pure and noble that man of prayer, man of faith, and men of piety,

P. S. Our extensive engagements in the Exhibition business have led many to suppose we furnished the Fire Works to the City of Boston last year (1857) when the unfortunate and fatal accident took place on the exhibition ground.

It justice to ourselves, and in answer to enquiries, we will state that, although we supplied the city of Boston for a number of years, and have contracted for the same the present year, we did NOT supply them last year, the contract for 1857 having been given to other parties.

STATE OF MAINE.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
Augusta May 29, 1858

An adjourned session of the Executive Council will be held at the Council Chamber, in Augusta on TUESDAY, the twenty second day of June next. Attest,

NOAH SMITH Jr.,
Secretary of State

A Good Service for Maine.

When the democratic party in Congress passed the Fishing bounties of Maine and passed a bill in the Senate to repeal the bounty law, the organs of the party excited the attack upon northern interests—first by declaring in substance that Maine and New England deserved the vengeance of the South for adhering to Black Republicanism, in other words for opposing the extension of slavery and upholding the interests of free labor, and second, by alleging in terms resulting as they were false that the Republican delegation of Maine was inefficient, and unable to defend the interests of the State. We met the latter charge in general terms, and also as to particulars, at the time it was made. We now wish to refer to one other item which has since been added to the record.

What has the Maine delegation ever done? ask the hunker organs. We answer, as one recent item, it has secured the payment to Maine of large sums due on our Aroostook claims—sums which, (although we have not yet a full report of the proceedings) we believe amount to nearly $60,000. It is so stated in some information which we recently had from Washington.

On the 7th of June, the General Appropriation Bill came to the House, from the Senate with two amendments providing for payments to Maine amounting to about the sum above named. The whole number of amendments thus received was 64, and of these the Committee of Ways and Means recommended a concurrence in some 15 or 20 only, and a non concurrence in all the rest, including the Maine amendments. The House agreed with the committee, in all but three cases, and of these three two were the amendments for Maine—These were carried triumphantly in the House, and solely in consequence of the determined and persevering efforts of the Maine delegation. They were carried against the committee of Ways and Means, and with Jones of Tenn., (Buchanan's Premier) Jones of Tenn., Letcher, Phillips of Ala., and others contesting them inch by inch. Messrs. Morse and Washburn made strong and convincing speeches, in advocacy of our claims, and the whole delegation worked vigorously and effectually, and the amendments were carried through the House. They were originally adopted in the Senate solely upon the movement and by the able advocacy of the Republican Senators from Maine.

Thus in a democratic Senate and House, the Republican delegation from Maine has carried a measure for the State which ought to have passed years ago and which democratic delegations in former democratic Congresses apparently could not carry.

BENEFITS OF ADVERTISING.—A merchant of Hamilton recently laid out a considerable sum in advertising for the purpose of determining the advantages which would result from it.—He informs us that from the investment of about $30 he has made a clear profit of $1 in one week of two hundred dollars. He intends to put at the above is put at a low figure and then there is the advantages hereafter to be derived from it. The merchant has established on his satisfaction the fact that if a man wishes to prosper in business he must make his business known to the public.—Buffalo paper.

During the recent tornado in Illinois, a lightning rod 65 feet in length, with 6½ feet buried in the earth was wrenched from a barn in Limestone, and carried into a distant field. The barn was uninjured.

The largest timber raft ever floated down the Susquehanna river, arrived at Wrightsville Pa., on Tuesday. It was floated out of the Sinnemahoning creek in sections, and rafted at Lock Haven. It is 345 feet long and 29 feet in width.

Cheap Postage Assailed by the Southern Democracy.

The Democratic Senate of the United States, upon motion of Mr Johnson of Arkansas, HAS VOTED TO INCREASE THE POSTAGE ON LETTERS to five cents under 3000 miles, and to ten cents over 3000 miles. This is the second great movement inimical to the North, which has been brought forward and carried through the Senate at the present session. The Fishing Bounties are first voted down, and the sugar bounties upheld—the former being a northern and national interest,—the latter being a Southern and also a mere sectional interest.—And now the cheap postage system is attacked from the same quarter. The people of the North now pay three quarters of the postages. They already pay all the expenses of the department in their own States, and also a large part of the expense of carrying the mails at the South, but because they do not yet pay all the deficiency at the South, the Senators of that section propose to make our people pay nearly DOUBLE POSTAGE on their letters, and thereby provide the balance of what the South cannot pay into the department. We believe that this movement will not succeed—the people of the United States will never consent to abandon the cheap postage system, because the South cannot pay for carrying its own mails. The whole country, and not the North alone, should pay the deficiency, if the South cannot be made to do it as she ought.—At all events, we hope no northern Congressman will vote to increase the postage, on the flimsy ground that the Post Office department should be self sustaining. A million or two a year will be much better bestowed from the treasury, in continuing cheap postage to the people than in fattening political profligates, or in paying enormous profits to political favorites in the sale of land reservations or the purchase of sites for fortifications.

CONGRESSIONAL AMENDMENTS TO THE POST OFFICE LAW—THE WILSON AND GWIN DIFFICULTY.—The following proceedings of the Senate on Thursday, were not received by telegraph.

On the motion to amend the Post Office Appropriation Bill by increasing the postage to five cents under 3000 miles and ten cents over 3000 miles, the yeas and nays were as follows.

Yeas—Messrs Benjamin, Bright, Broderick, Brown, Clay, Collamer, Davis, Fitch, Gwin, Hunter, Johnson of Ark., Johnson of Tenn., Mallory, Pearce, Polk, Reid, Sebastian, Thomson and Yulee—19.

Nays—Messrs Bigler, Chandler, Clark, Doolittle, Douglas, Fessenden, Foster, Hamlin, King, Pugh, Rice, Seward, Stuart, Wilson, Wright—16.

Absent—29.

Mr Pugh moved that the franking privilege of members of Congress be abolished from the 4th of March next.

Agreed to—Yeas 38, Nays 4.

Nays—Messrs Bayard, Clingman, Houston and Reid.

Absent—Messrs Bates, Bell, Cameron, Crittenden, Dixon, Douglas, Dukes, Gwin, Hammond, Hayne, Iverson, Jones, Kennedy, Mason, Pearce, Sebastian, Simmons, Sidell, Sumner, Thompson of Ky., and Trumbull.

An amendment was also adopted repealing the present arrangement of advertising the letter bills in the newspapers of the largest circulation and opening the advertising to the lowest bidder.

Finally the bill passed—30 agains 14.

The bill for collecting the revenue being under discussion, Mr Wilson said that the Senator from California talked of demagogueism. The State of California always had her hand in the Treasury, up to the elbow. If the Senator (Gwin) alluded to him, he would only say he would rather be a demagogue than a thief.

Mr Gwin—Does the Senator apply that term specifically to me, or only to the collection of revenue.

Mr Wilson—I have no explanation to make.

Mr Gwin—If he applies it to me, he is a slanderer, calumniator and coward.

Mr Wilson made no reply.

TO PREVENT CONVULSIONS.—The following curious mode of preventing a convulsion, commonly called a fit, we find in a late number of the Charleston Medical Journal and Review, in a long article on the Treatment of Epilepsy, by Wm M Cornell M D, of New York. If it is successful, all should know it, as its value is of great importance.

I have employed various means to ward off an epileptic attack for the time being. Stretching the muscles powerfully will generally prevent an attack, for example, when the aura commences in the great toe, or in the leg, a strong tract on or elongating the toe or stretching the muscles of the leg, will carry the patient over the threatened attack for the time, or when the patient has premonitory symptoms of an attack opening the jaws as widely as can be done and placing some hard substance between the teeth to keep the mouth open, will have the desired effect. I have had one patient who by my advice, carried a piece of iron with him for a year, fitted for the purpose of expanding the jaws to their utmost capacity, and keeping them thus expanded—When he felt what he called the 'little spasms', which have usually been the precursors of the great ones, or the fits, he has immediately drawn from his pocket the iron wedge, opened his mouth to its utmost width, and placed the wedge between his teeth. He then becomes quiet, goes about his business, or gives himself no further trouble about the convulsions, and has none.

STEAMERS LEAVING THE LAKES.—We learn by a gentleman direct from Montreal that the steamer Canada, a fine boat of 1600 tons, was successfully carried through the rapids from Lake Ontario to Montreal, on Monday last.—It was a most hazardous and dangerous undertaking, owing to the very rapid current, which runs ten miles an hour and the many tortuous channels. The boat came down at the rate of twenty five miles an hour, during her perilous descent—once down she can never return. At one bend in the river it was necessary to a low her bow to touch a large rock in the channel, in order to give the boat a short turn—this was a nice operation but it was skillfully and successfully achieved.

The America, also a fine boat of the same character of the Canada, and belonging to the same line, will take her chance through the rapids on Monday next. The cause of these fine boats leaving the lakes, was for lack of business.

PLEASANT PEACE TO LIVE—The town of Iberville, in Plaquemine Parish Louisiana, is situated on the banks of the Mississippi, and is now ten feet below the surface of the water in that father of rivers. A crevasse occurred there a few nights since, which threatened to submerge the town, but by prompt and energetic action of the inhabitants, it was stopped, before any material damage was done.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.—On Saturday evening the 'ins' and 'outs' of the Democratic party indulged in an interesting little family quarrel at the Court House, to see which wing should have the honor of representing the city at the State Convention. The result was that the "Custom House drive" carried the day by a vote of 374 to 52. The following gentlemen were elected delegates to the Convention:

Amos M Roberts, Daniel W Bradley, Benjamin Wiggin, Moses L Appleton, Menander Pearson, Philo Strickland, Moreellus Emery, John Rand, Patrick Gallagher, William Cutter, Albion P. Bradbury, and Moses Saunders.

During the balloting there was a variety of opinions among the 'ins and 'outs' as to who were the pure Democracy, and so fully was the matter discussed in the Court House yard, that several times during the evening the timely interference of the bystanders prevented belligerent parties from coming to blows. 'Let brotherly love continue.'

PORTLAND STEAM NAVIGATION Co.—At the Annual meeting of the Portland Steam Navigation Company, the following officers were unanimously elected:

Charles Forbes President, Wm K Kimball, Secretary and Treasurer, Capt. J B Coyle, Capt. Edward H Sanford, Directors.

DEPOT ROBBERIES.—Within a short time the Depots at Lewiston, Leeds and Greene have been broken into and robbed of money. On Monday last the scamps were arrested at Lewiston, by means of endeavoring to pass some counterfeit money, which was among the cash they took. Their names were Savage and Gott. They were committed for trial.

ACCIDENT.—Mr Robert Williams was severely, though it is hoped not seriously, injured at the chisel factory on Thursday last, by the falling of a heavy piece of cast iron upon him.—Skowhegan Tel.

The Old Steam Mill, in Rockland, a building of small value and now unoccupied, was burned on the 5th inst.

SEE OUTSIDE.—We re publish on the outside of to day's paper, the report of the proceedings at the laying of the corner stone of the Seminary Chapel, as published on Friday and Saturday.

STEAMER ROCKLAND.—This steamer was sold at public auction, on Tuesday, according to advertisement and was bid off by Franc s Cobb Esq., for $7,800. Mr Cobb represents, we understand, a number of purchasers, who will, doubtless, continue the boat on her present route.—Rockland Gazette.

SURVEYS OF LAND.—We are happy to be able to announce that the Land Agent will, undoubtedly be directed by the Governor and Council, at the next session, to survey such townships as may be necessary and that the work will commence immediately after such instructions are given. It may be expected that by the first of July the surveyors will have commenced their labor.—Aroostook Pioneer.

The Dexter Gem says:

Our factories, which for a long time have been idle, with their machinery rusting out, are about to be put in operation, preparations for which are rapidly progressing. With the hum of the spindle, will return, we trust, the hum of business in our streets, and our village again assume its former position as the most thrifty and enterprising village between the two rivers.

ACCIDENT.—We learn that Mr. Wm. P. Stevens, of this town, was returning home on Tuesday evening last he received a kick from the horse he was driving, which shattered one of his knee pans and otherwise injured his leg, severing the cords &c.—Norway Adv.

The news of the submission of the Mormons and of the English disavowal of the outrages in the Gulf, has taken down the hopes of a host of army and navy contractors, and abstracted largely from the prospective patronage of the administration. The treasury has suffered deeply, however in the mere anticipation of war.

The New York Times' correspondent says: The allusion to the President's communication to congress was received by the House with loud laughter. There is some talk this evening of ordering a committee of investigation on the subject of the Utah campaign.

Four Days Later from Europe.

ST JOHNS, N F, June 11.—The Canadian screw steam ship Nova Scotian, from Liverpool June 2 for Quebec, arrived at the Straits of Belle Isle at 5 A M, 10th, and finding the passage blocked with ice, after endeavoring for ten hours to effect a passage through, was obliged to take the southern route.

In the House of Commons on the 1st, Mr Lindsay asked the government if it was true that U S vessels in the Havana, or on the western coast of Africa trade, had been fired into, boarded, searched or detained by British cruisers, and if so, by what authority, or under whose instructions did the commander of these ships so act.

Fitzgerald said the government had no official information on the subject, but had reasons to believe the reports had been exaggerated. They were as anxious as the American government to avoid all cause of complaint, and strict orders had been issued to the officers of the stations to be exceedingly cautious.

The steamships Niagara and Agamemnon sailed from Plymouth Sound on Saturday evening for the west coast of Ireland.

The news from India is not very definite—The English appear to have sustained some reverses, but had generally defeated the rebels who were retiring towards Oude.

THE CONDEMNATION OF THE SECRETARY OF WAR.—The Tribune's correspondence of the 11th says:

'The House unanimously to day repealed all laws authorizing the Secretary of War to sell military reservations. This is a most significant condemnation of Secretary Floyd, showing the universal unwillingness to allow him to display any more Fort Sumter talent, or to give him any discretion whatever.'

THE ASSAULT UPON CHEAP POSTAGE.—The N Y Times correspondent, wrote on Friday as follows:

"The Senate's abolition of the franking privilege and raising the postage to five cents, arouses strong resistance in the House. Many members threaten to break up the whole system, and resort to private expresses.

The Congressional proceedings of Friday are not yet received in consequence of a break on Friday night in the telegraph south and west of New York.

LORD BYRON'S DEFORMITY.—The unhappy character of Lord Byron may be traced somewhat to the secret of his terrible deformity, the extent of which was never suspected even by his nearest friends, and which is now revealed to the world for the first time by his friend, Mr Trelawny, in his recent volume. At his death, Byron exacted from his confidential servant a solemn promise that no one should see his body, in order that the secret should descend with him to the grave. How the dying injunction of the poet was defeated thus appears. Mr T says:

'I asked Fletcher to bring me a glass of water. On his leaving the room, to confirm or remove my doubts as to the cause of his lameness, I uncovered the pilgrim's feet, and was answered—the great mystery was solved. Both his feet were clubbed, and his legs with Apollo, with the feet of a sylvan satyr. This was a curse chaining a proud and soaring spirit like his to the dull earth. It was generally thought his halting gait originated in some defect of the right foot and ankle—the right foot was the most distorted and it was made worse in his boyhood by vain efforts to set it right. His shoes were peculiar—high heeled, with the soles uncommon thick on the inside and pared thin on the outside—the toes were stuffed with cotton wool and his trowsers were very large below the knee, and strapped down so as to cover his feet. The peculiarity of his gait was now accounted for, he entered a room with a sort of run, as if he could not stop then planted his best leg well forward, throwing back his body to keep his balance—In early life, while his frame was light and elastic, with the aid of a stick he might have trotted along a mile or two, but after he had waxed heavier, he seldom attempted to walk more than a few hundred yards without leaning on at the first wall bank, rock, or tree, at hand, never sitting on the ground, as it would have been difficult for him to get up again. In the company of strangers on occasion only he would make desperate efforts to conceal his infirmity, but the hectic flush on his face, his swelling veins and quivering nerves, betrayed him and he suffered for many days after such exertions.

AMERICAN PRIVATEERS IN THE LAST WAR.—A History of the Privateers of the late war, of which a condensed account is given in the Petersburg Intelligencer, states that the number of privateers and private armed ships, commissioned as cruising vessels, and actively engaged during our war with Great Britain, in the years 1812 1813 and 1814, were two hundred and fifty sail. Baltimore is the Corinth on this list, having furnished more than one fifth of the whole number—68. New York sent out 55. Salem 40, Boston 31, Philadelphia 14, Portsmouth 11. Charleston 10 &c. More than two thousand of British armed vessels and shipping were captured during the war, and of this number two thirds were taken by our privateers and letters-of marque.

The late Hon. Jno. Adams, that the English navy entered upon the contest with one thousand and sixty men-of war, eight hundred of which were in commission and were effective cruisers, while the United States had but seven effective frigates with twelve or fifteen sloops of war, and most of the latter undergoing repairs in the dock yards. Only about one hundred American vessels—one fourth the number of captures—were taken by the enemy.

A GOOD SWIMMER.—Capt Smith, of the schooner Sheppard A Mount at Philadelphia from St Marts, reports that on the 20th of May he came on deck at 8 30 A M, and found that his son a lad of 14, was missing. A search of the vessel showed that the lad was not aboard and it was concluded that he must be overboard, when the vessel was put about and beat back over the course she had sailed, and not until 12 o'clock was the boy discovered and picked up. He was swimming manfully, and had divested himself of most of his clothing. He alleged that he could have gained himself for two or three hours longer. There was a heavy sea running at the time and the wind was blowing a nine knot breeze.

GRAVEL IN MIS BOOTS.—"I wonder what has become of the scuffers, said Mrs Johnson. "I have been looking for them all the evening and can't find them high or low.

Nobody could give her any information. After a while the hired Dutchman getting sleepy, commenced going to bed.

"All dis day I thinks I got some lettle grabble stones in mine boots! I tink I git him out now."

He turned up his boot and poured out the scuffers.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF HOMŒOPATHY.—At the annual meeting of this association, Brooklyn, N Y, Wednesday, the following officers were chosen:

President—D S Smith, Chicago Ill.
General Secretary—W H Payne, Bath, Me.
Provincial Sec'y—E M Richardson, Brooklyn.
Treasurer—Bell Guy, Brooklyn.

There is a tame rat on board the City of Memphis, says the Appeal, which stands up on his hind feet when ordered, licks his master's hand, and kisses him, climbs up over him, holds a stick in his fore paws, and stands up like a soldier, comes when called, goes away when told to do so, and enters his box or cage as an obedient child would at the request of its parents.

We have read a great many epitaphs quaint or ludicrous, but none more so, perhaps, than one cut not long since on a gravestone, at the marble shop in some village—

"The little Hero that lies here
Was conquered by the Diarrhœa."

MR. PARKER DAVIS—I feel it to be my duty to bear testimony to the efficacy of your Pain Killer. I have used it for years for complaints of the same sort and bowels. I had a very severe attack a few days ago of the ague and such a pain in my back for three days and nights that I could get no rest. I went and got a 25 cent bottle of the Vegetable Pain Killer. I took a little internally and bathed according to directions and one application has removed all the pain and I am able to write to day though with a trembling hand. The application was made last night about 10 o'clock, and I slept a sweet night's rest. I have recommended it for several years, and I have travelled a good deal, and it has given universal satisfaction where it has been used according to directions. Yours gratefully, L PERRY CHILDS

Choice Lumber Lands For Sale in Pennsylvania!

THESE Lands are located on the Susquehanna River, and the larger tributaries in Clinton, Clearfield and Centre Counties. They are thickly covered with a heavy growth of choice timber, principally White Pine of excellent quality, yielding on average 40,000 feet to the acre of pine alone. The Sunbury and Erie Railroad passes through several of them. The River and streams are admirably adapted for Logging and Rafting. Logs are floated to Lock Haven, a few miles below, and there sold at great profit. These lands are well worth examination as they present unusual facilities for extensive lumbering operations. Timber leave is now readily obtained for $2 per M feet. All these lands are underlaid with several veins of bituminous coal of excellent quality. On account of facilities of transportation and improvements making in that section these lands offer every inducement for profitable investment. For full particulars, locality, &c, inquire of ANDREW GRIFFIN, Esq., of Bangor, or address QUIGGLE & PANCOAST, No. 108 So 4th St Philad'a.

TELEGRAPHIC

TO THE DAILY WHIG AND COURIER.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, June 12

SENATE—The consideration of the Indiana election case was resumed and the report of the Judiciary committee that Messrs Bright and Fitch are entitled to their seats was adopted.

The Senate refused to concur with the House in its amendment to the naval bill for ten ships of war instead of five, and another committee of conference was appointed.

The Indian deficiency bill was passed.

The fifteen million loan bill was received from the House and passed

Numerous private bills were considered and passed

Mr Goodwin's signal light for ships at sea, was ordered to be tabled and reported upon at the next session

After an executive session the Senate took a recess till 7 o clock

EVENING SESSION

SENATE.—The Senate chamber was crowded. Mr Hammond of S C presented the report of the conference committee on the Ocean Mail Steamer Bill, announcing that the committees had come to an agreement The only feature in the report of special interest is that which grants the permission to Mr Collins to make Southampton the terminus of the line.

On motion of Mr Toombs of Georgia the report was adopted and the bill passed

The Bill granting pensions to Mrs Gaines and Mrs Jones was reconsidered and divided into two bills, both of which were passed—Mrs Jones is granted $52 a month during her widowhood, and Mrs Gaines $60 a month during her life

The House bill for the payment of the mails from St Josephs, Missouri, to Visberville, California, was passed by 29 against 17.

On motion of Mr Hunter of Virginia, the Senate agreed to the report of the conference committee on the bill for the collection of the revenue and the bill passed

Mr Toombs of Georgia, from the Conference Committee on the Post Office Appropriation Bill reported that the committee had been unable to agree, and that the bill had been laid on the table of the House He moved that the Senate adhere to its amendment

Mr Stuart of Michigan agreed with Mr T, and wanted to know whether the Senate really had any share in shaping the legislation of the country

Mr T said they had not, and in his opinion did not deserve it

The subject was then postponed

[The meaning of the above is that the House have refused to abolish the franking privilege representatives, but are quite willing that Senators should divest themselves of that right.]

Mr Hunter of Virginia, moved to take up the $15 000 000 Loan Bill with the House amendment to make it $20 000,000, which was agreed to and the bill passed as amended

11 30 P M—The spectators are thinning off quite rapidly, and no ladies are now present Senators seem tired and sleepy? Several motions to adjourn have been made, the latest being negatived by 29 against 17.

12 30—Senators are considerably exercised respecting the pertinacity of the House in the matter of the Post Office bill

Mr Iverson raised his single voice in favor of the Senate according to the suggestions of the House

Divers gentlemen were then anxious to adjourn

Mr Bigler brought unanimous consent to introduce a joint resolution to extend the session, but five or six Senators promptly interposed "I object"

Mr Hunter moved that the Senate meet on Monday at 9 o clock

Mr Brown—I object

A motion was then made to adjourn, when the yeas and nays being called, it was carried by yeas 23, nays 21, consequently the Senate found itself unexpectedly adjourned to Monday at 11 o clock, and this necessitates a prolongation of the session

Mr Bigler's motion to extend the session indefinitely

HOUSE—A message was received from the President, in which he says that it is his indispensable duty to call the attention of Congress to the condition of the treasury on the 15th of May The Secretary estimates that thirty seven millions will probably be required for the first two quarters of the next fiscal year This does not include such amounts as may be appropriated over and above the estimates than submitted, and the probable deficiency cannot be ascertained till the appropriation and private bills shall be finally passed He recommends Congress to provide the necessary means before the adjournment The failure to do so would be a disgrace which should not fall on the country It will be impossible for him to ascertain the amount required, before Monday next, it now being half past 11 o clock of Saturday He repeats the statement in his annual message, and says he is determined to approve no bill which has not been duly deliberately examined, and that he will not depart from this except in extreme cases He asks a postponement for a brief period, for the reason stated and says he will not detain Congress an hour beyond the time necessary to ascertain the total amount of the appropriations

Mr J Glancy Jones of Pa. said the message was based on the supposition that the House would not finish acting on the appropriation bills till a late hour at night The civil bill has been kept back from the consideration of the House for the simple purpose that the executive branch may ascertain from the outsiders the wants of the Secretary of the Navy, what amount of money may be required. He had prepared the programme relative to the action on the pending measures, by which the House could act on them intelligently by 4 o'clock, and adjourn on Monday next On his motion the message was laid on the table and ordered to be printed

The House then acted on the bill as returned from the Senate with amendments making appropriations for the collection of the revenue

Mr Barksdale of Miss said the committee on foreign affairs were now ready to report the bill relative to British aggression. His opinion was that Congress should not adjourn without taking measures to resent the aggression on our rights

Mr Sickles was ready to report his bill, but the House would not consent at this time.

The loan bill was then taken up

Mr Burlingame spoke in favor of our government seizing the British cruisers wherever they could be found.

Mr Bunkel of Md inquired whether Mr Burlingame would plunge the country into a war whether England authorized those acts or not

Mr B replied that the course he advocated was the way to preserve the peace and honor of the country We want no war, but we want no insults If England meant to search the present war We never would submit to it. The question rested with her and not with us He admired her courage and he admired in her renown

Mr Glancy Jones of Pa. said as Mr Burlingame had made a war speech, he expected him to respond to all the claims for expenses. After referring to the figures, and giving a minute account of the condition of the treasury, he remarked it was a question of [illegible] to a temporary financial reform during the existing hours of this session Let it be commenced at the next.

Mr Sickles of New York said—If the policy Mr B proposed was carried out, $100,000 000 would be required Mr Sickles proceeded at some length in support of the administration

Mr Blair of Mo inquired whether it was not on the invitation of the Secretary of State that the British operations against the slave trade on the African coast were transferred from that continent to this?

Mr S replied—Not in any sense of the word

Mr Blair remarked—Then he was much mistaken in his reading of the correspondence between the Secretary of State and the British Government

The Light House Appropriation Bill was then taken up

Mr Cumins of Mass. during his remarks, said—With the establishment of the light

The House agreed to all the Senate amendments to the Indian Deficiency Bill, and increased the amount in the Loan Bill to $20,000 000

Mr Nichols of Ohio, from the Committee on Printing, reported a resolution to print 500 extra copies of the Coast Survey report.

Mr Clemens of Va., amidst considerable confusion, denounced the effect of the resolution as a gratuity to Mr Wendell, (cries of order, order, order)

Mr Nichols earnestly denied the charge, remarking that the resolution was predicated on the memorial of 50 or 60 ship owners in New York The resolution was then passed

The House concurred in the report of the Conference Committee on the Ocean Mail bill It contains a clause that it shall not be lawful for the Post Master General to make any steamship or other new contract to carry the mails on the sea for a longer period than two years, nor shall any other than inland and sea postage be paid on the mail so transported—The Postmaster General is also authorized to cause the mails to be transmitted to any foreign ports by steamships, flying the vessels, if Amer can, Ireland and sea postage, and if foreign sea postage—preference being given to the former

Shortly after midnight, several members raised the question that it was Sunday, when the House, having no particular business before it, adjourned

Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, June 13

The difficulty between Senators Wilson and Gwinn has been adjusted, after the refusal to make any acknowledgments

It was proposed by Mr Wilson's friends to refer the subject to Senators Crittenden, Seward and Davis to which Mr Gwinn assented These gentlemen last night drew up a statement, in which they say that the remarks of Mr Gwinn imputing unworthy motives to Mr Wilson, although general, were objectionable and unparliamentary, and yet they by no means justified or warranted Mr Wilson in using the very opprobrious epithets with which he retaliated After stating other things in connection, they add—"We are possessed of a fact which indeed is apparent on the face of the reported debate, that Mr Wilson in using the epithet employed did not impute any want of personal integrity to Mr Gwinn but merely reflected upon his course in legislation in regard to California, which Mr Wilson deemed extravagant and wasteful, although the expression is obviously liable to an offensive and dishonoring construction

Lieut Gen Scott has been in consultation with the Secretary of war as to army movements, in view of the late occurrences in Utah, and orders have been sent by express to a large portion of the troops now on the march across the Plains, to turn in the direction of various localities requiring protection The magazines of supplies will however be forwarded to Utah as a considerable body of troops will be kept in Utah for a long time

KANSAS The following extract from a private letter written by a trader in Lawrence, who has been through nearly all the troubles, fully confirms the statements of our own correspondent as to the feeling in the territory in regard to the Locompton bribe —Boston Journal

"Tell your Democratic friends that we had rather be thrown into the burning fiery furnace whose shadrach, Meshack and Abednego were cast, than to receive the Locompton Constitution, even if Satan had added to the base bribe all that he offered to Jesus

No sir we have looked to long upon the movements of the flying companies of U S troops, over ready to do the bidding of as vile a government as the world can boast to be terrified at threats or seduced by bribes—When our property was at the mercy of a crowd let loose upon us by our government, our crops destroyed by these same miscreants our trade ruined, our goods stolen, our friends lying on the prairie around us weltering in their gore, when the sky was indeed black over our heads, and sullen despair had well nigh taken possession of every heart, even then we did not yield We proudly bore ourselves and drove our enemies from among us shall we then, after having been reinforced by four times our number—having taken possession of the Territorial government, and having our own way in every respect—shall we now yield and sell ourselves for nought?

AN OLD CUSTOM—Mr Edmund Quincy, at the Dedham tree planting, gave a graphic account of the old time custom of supplanting tythingmen in the churches, to be a terror to delinquents, who were consigned to penitence and tribulation on the pulpit stairs The tythingman, as a badge of his office, carried a long staff on one end of which was a fox's tail and on the other a formidable knob, and it was his province, when any of the congregation indulged in somnolence—which they did, sometimes, then, though such fault is not known in our day—to walk stealthily along to where the slumberer was sitting, and, if a female, tickle her nose with the fox tail or if a male give him a pretty smart bat on the head with the knob end of his official baton the method was very efficacious in restoring the sleepers to their proprieties We are glad that no such severity is now needed

MARINE LOSSES FOR MAY—The monthly table of marine losses for May shows an aggregate of 33 vessels, of which 6 were ships, 10 were barques, 3 were brigs, 12 were schrs, 2 were steamers, and 1 sloop The total value of property lost was $714 000 As compared with the month of May, 1857, the above shows a decrease in the value of property lost of $537 500

QUEER LAW SUIT—We have had a queer suit. What do you think of an action brought for a river that would not hold water? The landlady of a country house, near Paris fell into a longing for a river You are to know that since the Bois de Boulogne has been adorned in the English style, every landed proprietor has gone mad with the Anglo rural mania So she sent for Monsieur Bournazet, a little Frenchman, who rejoices in the title of entrepreneur des rocailles et de rivieres, and ordered him to make her a river in her chalet, her back yard The river delighted her, she had it stocked with all sorts of fishes and it was the gem of her country lodge as long as it held water but one morning the water all began to quit the river, leaving the fishes in the greatest embarrassment, as the lady a lawyer assured the Court. The servants were set to work, and pail after pail of water was thrown into the river The well became dry, the servants gave not one to quit, saying they could not stand such hard work as keeping a river in water—so my lady appealed to the court to force the little Frenchman who manufactures rivers in lots to suit customers to take his river back again and make it water tight.—Paris Cor N. Y. Express.

THE GARDEN The garden during the month of June requires special daily attention at least in walking through it, relieving a plant here, adjusting the earth there, tying up a shrub in this place and securing a vine in that, now thinning out an overgrowth in one spot, now transplanting in another. Weeding must be attended to and there is a great saving of time in cutting the weeds beneath the surface as soon as the vegetables sown break the surface to show where they are, then apply the hoe between the rows and about the hills. There is no real need of a large growth of weeds in a garden that is properly cultivated, because they argument before they break the surface of the soil or when they are so small as to be easily pulverized.—Ken Farmer

In the preface to a new edition of his works Mr Dickens gives the following account of Box—

"Box, my signature in the Morning Chronicle appended to the monthly cover of this book, and retained long afterward, was the nickname of a pet child, a younger brother, whom I had dubbed Moses, in honor of the Vicar of Wakefield, which being facetiously pronounced through the nose, became Box

This Agency is not only the largest in New England but through its ventors have advantages for securing patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to any which can be offered elsewhere The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY he would add that he has abundant reason to believe and can prove that at no other office of the kind are the chances for professional services so moderate The immense practice of the subscriber, during twenty years past has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents These besides the extensive library of foreign and mechanical works and full accounts of Patents granted in the United States and Europe render him able beyond question to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent and the usual great delay therefore here saved inventors

TESTIMONIALS

Dodge has all decided at the office of Commissioner of Patents R H Eddy Esq of Boston did this office at the Patent Office as clerk for five years during which time he was in charge of the Patent Office for a period of one year and was considered one of the best informed and most competent men in the Office and was noted for his success in obtaining patents for inventors

Having been intimately acquainted with the business of Mr Eddy during his residence in Washington I do not hesitate to say that he is a person of the utmost integrity and possesses the qualifications in a high degree necessary to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office

LINCOLN'S

WATER PROOF BLACKING,

AND LEATHER PRESERVATIVE.

Keep your Feet dry and you will seldom need a Physician

IS it not a truth that when the feet are often wet, it is one of the greatest causes of colds and consumption? It is a truth that when leather is often wet and dried, it soon becomes hard stiff, and cracks but when it is water-proof this is remedied. By the application of this preservative, it remains soft and entirely impervious to water

After being engaged for 26 years in the manufacture of Leather in all its branches and being often troubled with wet feet myself, I was led to experimenting on different composition, and found it easy to make it water proof but, at the same time extremely injurious to the leather. At last by a chemical process, I discovered a preparation which perfectly harmonizes with the astringent properties with which leather is tanned It will not only make leather water proof, but it like wise softens the leather, and it will Positively wear twice as long.

I have now used it for three years and a large part of that time have worked in a wet tannery, with my boots constantly in water and have not had my feet wet during that time I can therefore in all confidence recommend it to the public as the best article in the market

A NICHOLAS, President. Office, 70 Wall st.

A Perfect Security against all manner of Fraud or Counterfeiting on Paper—To Prevent Photographs and Anastatic Counterfeits, Erasures, Transfers or Alterations

HAVING purchased the Patent for the exclusive right to manufacture and sell the Chemical Paper in America, invented and patented in England by HENRY GLYNN, a celebrated chemist and officer in the British army it is hardly necessary to say that the Paper is recommended by Mr Kent, Assayer of the U S Mint Mr Lyman of the New York Clearing House and Meade Brothers extensive and skillful photographers 253 Broadway, N Y The latter say that no imitation can be made on a check or bank note printed on the Safety Paper Below is our list of prices

Bills of Exchange—$25 for 1000 sheets

All State and County Records should always be printed or written on this paper, as the chemicals inserted in the pulp not only prevents erasure or transfer but makes it lasting as time

For Southern climates it is excellent and much superior to any other as the moistness of the climate does not destroy it,—the properties inserted in the pulp being a preventive In all the Southern States Cuba, the West Indies and the Central American States and public records can be kept over 20 years written on the ordinary paper, while the oils and other chemicals inserted in this paper makes it indestructible by the rays of the sun it is also proof against moths, rats and other vermin which feast on and destroy all other paper now in use

The following remedies are offered to the world as the best, most perfect which modern science can afford. — AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS are prepared with the utmost skill and possession of all agents possessed and they have virtues which surpass any of most eminent physicians hitherto known. They do more good than this class of medicines generally do. Their curative powers are so quick and so sure, an efficacy and a power to expect from any thing which men have known to be, overcoming the obstructions of the internal organs, stimulating them into healthy action the fountains of life and vigor flow anew through the body and the sick man is well again. They are adapted to cases where only for when taken in large doses they produce but little effect. This is the property of a purgative. It is antagonistic to disease and children may take them with impunity when sick they will cure them and will do them no harm

Give them to some patient worn down and prostrated with bilious complaint, in the shattering form straightens with strong long lost appetite returns, and blossom into health. Give them to those whose foul blood has broken out on the skin is covered with sores and blotches lies in anguish. He has been drenched out with every potion which long has failed to get. Give him these PILLS and see the scabs fall from his body and the skin that has grown under them is left clean. Give them to him whose humors have planted rheumatism in his bones, move him and he screeches with pain, too has been soaked through every body with liniments and salves and PILLS to purify his blood they may fail, for, alas there are cases which no medicine can reach, but many have been saved and now he walks about a living man. Give them to the lean scrofulous babe whose gnawing stomach has long made the merry smile from his face and every muscle and nerve cry out for food. See his appetite return and with it the new man See how that wasted form and loveliness blasted by too early and too rapid growth, away want of exercise or a sedentary life lurking disease has deranged the system of digestive assimilation or arrested their office till bitter blood and pain have gone. Give her these PILLS to restore the principle into renewed vigor to cause the constructions and infuse a new spirit into the New look again—the roses blossom on her cheek and where lately sorrow sat joy beams in every feature See the sweet infant rack and writhe. Its wan sickly features tell the story of its pain and painfully distinct that they are caused by worms away Its pinched up nose and restless sleep sign tell the dreadful tale. Give him a few doses to sweep those vermin from his system. Now turn again and see the ruddy cheek of health. Is it nothing to do this? Are they not the marvel of the age? And yet they are done around you every day

Have you the less serious ailments of the stomach? Are you troubled with Costiveness Headache Sick Headache Stomach Nausea Pain in the Side Loss of Appetite Biliousness Jaundice and kindred complaints all arising from derangement of the digestive organs? Take the PILLS regularly, and under the influence of these PILLS rapidly and surely will disappear. If you can if not take them freely and they will give you health. They are adapted to cases where only a cathartic is required. They are a safe and sure remedy for all those diseases they cure which are so numerous and so fatal to the human race are so out of the reach of medicine—they must but will be tried to be appreciated. Price—5 cents per box—5 boxes for 25 cents.

Throughout all of my years and in the practice of medicine I never saw a remedy that has been found to be so universally efficacious in more cases of human disease than Ayer's Cathartic Pills. Cases of long standing and of the most aggravated character have been cured by them which defied all other medicines and baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. Cases of Dropsy, Costiveness, Piles, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Ulcers, Dysentery, Worms, Suppression, Paralysis, Dropsy, Blindness, Deafness, Tumors, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scurvy, Scrofula, Ulcerations, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Boils
